Tangent, I had the same idea after the second movie-just a short little sequence with a b-list villain before the opening credits. Just to show that Spidey hasn't just been stopping muggings during the time between movies. I am kind of curious to see how the Sandman effects are going to work...the Goblin and Doc Ock were believable, but a guy that can turn into sand? I dunno...
   This is the main problem with Venom, in my opinion. I know, everyone wants to see him, and it seems like a cool idea, but you think the cgi Hulk looked silly? Think about it. Here's the thing that really has me thinking...Now that the idea of two guys playing the Chameleon has been shot down, doesn't Topher Grace with blond hair look an awful lot like...hmmm...I don't know...Tobey MacGuire with blond hair? Now why would they have a blond Peter Parker? I dont even want to think it...but Tobey is only signed on for 3 movies, as is Kirsten. Hmmmm....

I think sand effects would be ok, they worked pretty well in the Mummy and the Mummy Returns. I thought after seeing the first Mummy movie that they could do a sandman, but I wondered why they would.
