No doubt about it, zombies may be the most fun group of horror villians. You just can't beat them for pure reckless violence. They are already dead, so no guilt killing spree fun is the call of the day. Don't like zombies? Then grab a bat and beat one into mash... See now, wasn't that fun?

As far as quality goes, the big publishers are too scared to do anything new or cutting edge, so seeing a big push of interesting books isn't too likely. They have to protect those golden geese. I look to alternative publishers, and TPBs. I find more satisfying reads that way.
