In response to DC's "Crisis", Marvel is having a "Civil War"...

The background (for the uninitiated): The New Warriors, a B-level team of superheroes attempt to apprehend a group of villains for a reality TV show. One of these villains is Nitro, "the human bomb". This explosion kills the Warriors and over 600 civilians, mostly children. In an effort to make heroes accountable, the gov't passes the SuperHero Registration Act...now heroes will be regulated gov't employees, or wanted felons. Some heroes go public, like Iron Man, while others (like Captain America) go underground to fight for their civil liberties. The lines have been drawn....who's side are you on?????
