I just saw it, and I have to say I really enjoyed it.

Parker Posey's character and acting like most things she is in would have been better with a different actress. Kevin Spacey did not too bad as Lex, could have been better but he definately didn't let the movie down at all. Kate bosworth was OK, similiar to Spacey, not a stand out performance and not a let down either.

The two biggest surprises was how much Routh reminded me of Reeve's in some of the scenes it was just uncanny. I think he really did a good job. Also James Marsden as Lois Lanes Hubby actually acted and did a good job of it.

The Special effects were well done and there was plenty of both story and action to keep me interested through out the film.

Plus that music is still playing thru my head as I type this.

I hope they make a sequel to this version of superman as I left wanting more (in a good way).
