I'm not that big of a superman fan to begin with but you have pretty much all summed it up into a big lump what I think. Spacey was a generic Lex, destroy something, hurt his womans feelings and make her feel dumb, get land. Lois was annoying and just a terrible portrayal of the role. As for the minor chars they did pretty good. I kinda enjoyed the double papers of Superman is dead/Superman lives. As for Superman, he was similar to Reeve I just didnt get the childhood vibe of him being super, I mean the effects did everything behind it. All in all it was decent, ill rank it a little better than catwoman but worse than hulk ... Which isnt very high on my list. The one part that really made me lose flavor in the movie was "Ooooh Lois kissed me now Im alive" ... Does every comic movie have to endup being a love story in the end cause the whole movie drew out the fact he was more concentrated on loving her than anything else...bad... Though the x-ray scan of her body to see if it was fatal was nifty
