So I got watching a behind the scenes interview for the upcoming movie Pathfinder. In it, the bad guy is a giant Icelandic freakin dude. The actor is the same guy who played Kurgen (the bad guy in Highlander). So while working, my brain ran away with itself and thought about what if Dracula was just a screwed up story based on something a normal human saw after witnessing one of their head choppin battles. Then I remembered that USA movie about Vlad Dracul. And my brain started working overtime when I got home. I'm not finished yet, of course, mainly because right now I'm picturing something between Underworld and Mr. Sinister.

Dracula
as a Highlander
