btw Jr, they are called tortillions or blending stumps.

Tortillions are what you eat at Mexican food restaurants.

Look at you getting all geeky and technical. If I walked into my local art shop or drafting shop and asked for a 'smudge stick'... they would know exactly what I meant. Besides, although it is for blending... I look at it as smudging the pencil around. Oh well.. to each his own. :detailnerd:

Bio, I do like your exercises... we had to do that in college as well... except we had to do it with paint. Gave you a whole new respect for how easy pencil is compared to paint.

good words.
