Same here. I don't feel qualified to leave critiques of other people artwork since there is so much wrong with my own. Besides which, what might seem like a flaw at first glance, might appear as simply a stylistic choice when examined closer. I do try to give kudos when a piece of art really strikes me but I hate sounding insincere and it can sometimes be difficult to come up with compliments that sound meaningful. I will definitely try to be more involved though. Sadly, I usually only look at the comic art gallery since thats the kind I do.
