As I said, the issue gets sticky because people start talking about "how it was said".

What you're saying about ending with praise. A good friend told me to compliment first and then CC so they don't get angry. Let me just say after testing both. It doesn't stop the hate mail.

Also, I'm guilty of predominantly looking at the comic art gallery. For the same reasons as VagabondX, too. Although, I do look at the other galleries because I figure sometimes an objective opinion is unrestrained. I may not know much about 3D, but arms poking through rib cages unnaturally might be a big clue.
