That's a hell of a thread! Excellent!

I like to compliment all works from everybody. Then, when they turn their backs to me... BAM!

No, no... just kidding. I don't criticize as much as some of you do but I try to do my best to point what I think could be improved.

Sometimes I can't say anything good so my mouth is closed...

Sometimes I'm too lazy to write anything...

Sometimes someone already said what was going in my mind...

What I learned is that 3D works are very difficult for me to interpret. I don't have the slightest idea of how they are done. Eventually, something comes and, happily, I can see and understand how much passion was put into it.

That's it.
