SO basically you guys like my original suggestion to BB of having a second set of awards then (like artist's choice or Max's "The dodge and burns", good name btw Max).

What does everyone else think?

Should we make this second round of awards less serious then the first? Have stuff like the "Laughed my ass off award" for the most comedic gallery entry, and stuff like that.

I think that if we are going to do different awards show we should have the categories completely different and leave the more technical "best of" for the Annual Heromorph Awards (morphy's) and have the more "fun" awards for this one.

What does EVERYONE think about this idea?

Artists and non-artists please speak up; let us know what you are thinking about this? What would you like to see done? Do you hate awards? Do you have any possible categories? Do you tie your girlfriend up and spank her with a ping-pong paddle? Inquiring minds want to know.
