Dar, that's about as simple as anyone managed to put it, and yet as meaningful as some of the longer things I've heard.

OCP, your picture was beautiful, and your English is perfect to say what you meant.

And, while this probably isn't the right thread to do this in, neither is the delete pictures thread, and enough of the mods and heralds have read this that I'm sure one or two will see it. So...

When one of the mods has some time, after the hectic, frantic fix the site because it moved again is done, could someone move Shandril's pictures into the "Dead Artists" section? I know that the 'dead' part doesn't normally mean 'dead', but (1) she isn't ever going to log in again (unless I click the wrong button and use her account), and (2) no one is going to be able to contact her via email, phone, etc. (and if they do, I'd really like to know how). So, she pretty much meets the requirements.

Thanks to everyone. It's nice to know that people I've never met are as friendly and comforting as ones that I see every week.
