Well, 3 episodes in and I'm not terribly impressed. I really enjoyed season 1 and season 2 was okay, but now it just feels like they're trying too hard to be too clever and it's just becoming a convoluted mess. Using the "I saw the future and it BLOWS!" as the impetus for the third season in a row makes me think the writers don't have any more interesting tricks in their bag. Giving practically everyone superpowers and adding characters to an already over-sized cast... I don't know. I hope the show can redeem itself, because it has the potential to be great.
