it is definitely weird going over there now.

I wish Robbo and the rest of the c2f and DCG dudes luck at their new home.

I also hope that any of the C2f guys know that they are more then welcome here if Mania isn't their cup of tea.

I personally am looking forward to seeing the gallery once it gets transferred over but I am unsure what I think of my art being automatically transferred to a new site with out asking me

Actually I find it quite funny since so many of the c2f members were so gung-ho against Heromorph in our early years over similar things. Quite funny actually. But It will be very interesting to see what sort of controls and if they will still have a low file size for there images.

Not a big fan of the new sites navigation but I am sure I will get used to it.
