You know when I first found Heromorph it lit a fire in me that I had long thought burned out. I hadn't been inspired to draw a thing in over 10+ years then I found this site and those creative juices started flowing again. When I first started to post art here I had no idea what I was doing I never painted digital art and if you look at my early stuff you could see how much of a rookie I was. The comments and critiques by you Heromorphers taught me a lot and kept the fire burning. For me the comments are just as important as the art being posted and every comment means a lot to me. Although I never met any of you guys face to face I just wanted you all to know that I consider everyone here family and I am thankful to be able to share art on this site.

as Stan Lee would say
