One thing to cover is that the top ten is done by OCP, since I have had to step aside because of my crazy schedule... and I believe OCP has gotten very busy as well. So, it is a little difficult to get that done when one can't take care of their personal life(I speak for myself, not OCP) And the top ten is not a 5 minute update. And this is NOT a stab at anyone, but we really haven't have 9 REALLY good images to post every week. So, until we start getting more action from the members, it is hard for the admin to really do much. The last few challenges, that we have had, had little to no participation. I have tried to even get some activity in the forums but it seems that the only people that participate there are us old schoolers.

We need EVERYONE to participate so that it makes the admin's job easier. I am all for new challenges, contests, top tens, but without participation these things just don't happen.

Now, quit reading this and make art!
