

Forum: HM General Chit Chat

Topic: ideas

Subject: Re: ideas

Posted by: JrMcDeath

Posted on: 2013/1/31 10:14:21

I do not mean to hate... but it needs to be said. I commented on a handful of your first images because they were So-So Poser/Daz images. BUT... your stuff has become so stale and boring that I have run out of nice things to say about it. You really need... NO... HAVE to step outside your box and do something really cool.

You "Anime" is the same exact character... no matter how she is dressed. She is always in front of a wall of some sort. As a matter of fact, one image had two of the same girls running.... from a wall. Your lighting looks, to me, like the default lighting in Poser or Daz. I don't use Poser, because the lighting in it sucks compared to the good 3D programs. But I know what the default lighting looks like. And if you aren't using the default lighting, then shame on you for reproducing it exactly.

You have been producing the same old boring images for too long not to have gotten a ton better. Creating Art is not what is comfortable, it is a constant learning process and your next image should be a little better than your last. In Every image I do I always try and create a new texture or piece of a costume that is hand painted to see if I can do it. My manips went from "YAWN" to "YAWESOME" (IMO) when I decided to start painting my ladies Hair. (Instead of simply blurring it to get rid of the pixelation) Constantly grow as an artist!!!

Again, I was harsh, and I didn't mean to hate.... But come on... get a little crazy and do something dynamic!!! Even if the first few attempts suck, at least you are learning to become a better artist.