Oldtimey Heromorphers have all been very concerned about the amount of time Jr spends in his box. Much speculation has spawned over the years about just what it is that keeps him in there. Well I think I finally found an image that proves that not only does he have a good reason for locking himself up in there, he also leaves it on occasion. Though now that I see it, I can't imagine how he could drag himself away.

I have a high rez version of this image I am cleaning up, and I will be starting to add costumes to these ladies (one of the strange things manippers do). Anyone interested in joining me? I should have the cleaned up version done soonish.
