Don't get me wrong as I like the show and have never expected these shows to follow the comics as in most cases that might prove impossible in alot of cases.

Me I thought since Simon Stagg was there Metomorpha was to follow and the logical choice of thought was the scientist Girl's Boy who went into to reactor to tried to shut it down and supposedly died. But yes I did not connect the name to Fiestorm and that makes sense. Didn't catch the other references either, gonna have to pay more attention I guess.

I just remember a great funny scene in the WB's "Smallville" when the Legionnaires showed up and Lightning Lad says upon meeting Clark "Where's the Cape?" good comic moment.

A Friend and I were talking in the bar and he said he didn't like it .I don't get it? I hope there are not more people out there that feel that way.

Looking Forward to Arrow where Thalia shows up to claim Sara's Body are some thinking "The Lazarus Pit?" would explain alot.

Did anyone now notice that "The Atom" has shown up on Arrow also Dr. Ray Palmer who took over Queen Industries!
