Just a note... Juvie Mike has posted at C2F that he won't be able to organise this thing again this year, due to not having time. And since I'm a glutton for punishment, I'll volunteer to fill his shoes, unless he changes his mind, of course.

Team-up vs. Competition... is there any consensus whatsoever on this? I don't see any. I personally like the idea of a team-up, but then someone will inevitably not be able to finish on time... I've done a bunch of team-ups, sometimes they go fast and other times they can take months... so a competition might be better.

Incidentally, here's an idea, since there's no agreement on the point: why not allow both? We can pair people off, let them talk, and they can either team up or do two different pics using the same base pic, or with the same character, or something. Whichever they prefer. That might be easier than trying to get all of us to agree on one or the other approach.

Thoughts?
