Thanks for the picture, Ray.

I also hope that our picture does not become unfinished. but we only have one girl left. so if worse came to worse, we would just find someone else to do it or one of us could do a second girl in the picture, just to get it done. I am a little concerned since the due date has come and gone, and the project is not yet completed, but i am sure that the final peice will be completed one way or another. Hopefully, no one will have to be "replaced" and the project will be slapped together with out any problems. So far it has been a blast and i would love to do it again, maybe with a little more planning (my bad)
