I'm afraid that I must bow out. A good friend and co-worker of mine has had his 6 year old boy diagnosed with cancer this last 2 weeks. So in between covering for Cliff at work (during the Holidays no less) I've been at the hospital a lot. To keep his son Chris' mood up we've been playing countless games of Heroclix with him at his hospital bed. Smacking around a little plastic Hulk with Warbird has kept his spirits up :). The prognosis is good. They found one tumor where the large and small intestine meet, and all the other tests have been negative so far, but he'll still need 3-4 months of chemotherapy.

As such I may be scarce this month dividing spare time between wife, work and my friend's household. I am am sorry I won't be able to do my siryn pic :(

P.S. I feel I owe a plug to Heroclix as the game has kept Chris in a far better mood than should be expected. Anyone intested in having little minature wargames with little lastic super heroes/villans check it out.

DC Heroclix

It's one game but for liscensing reasons Marvel/DC must be advertised and sold seperately
