Is there any way an artist could update their own pics? I know this site should be for finished work only, but sometimes the suggestions people leave are so good that you want to incorporate them.

If artist can't update their own pages can we at least delete our own stuff? That way, if we have to re-post we can clear out the old version.

If you wish to update your image contact a moderator via e-mail. Send them the new version of the image and the url and they will change it for you.

as for deleting your images just make a post with the url in the image deletion request thread. located here :
