Or you can just do like me and run around to every computer in the library and vote for your own image... that is a great way to "fix" the competition.

there will be judges Silly.

OK, there still doesn't actually seem to have enough interest in this. I give a week for people to sign up. to sign up reply to this post. depending on how many people join will depend on how we proceed. I was think for each round we do a weapon per round, round 2: different weapon. and so on.

For example round one: Same base picture. a Judge would suply each opponent with a base picture. they would have a due date of a month to finish.

I will not take part as I will be an official Judge for this tornament. we need 8 or more people to sign up to make this happen I think, so if you are interested sign up NOW
