Unfortunately most comic book movies do suck. I understand that somethings have got to change in order to translate a character from the page to the screen, especially if that character has been around for 30 years or more. . .but most of the changes are just plain stupid.

My pet peeve is that every love intrest in a movie has to find out the heroes secret identity. I'll accept in the Spider-man, but everyone in the first four Batman movies ended up knowing that he was Bruce Wayne.
