I had an idea about the voting process, just an idea. I thought about other challenges with the voting process and such and what do y'all think about only one voter? I mean like for this first one since I came up with the MB contest, I will pick the winner, the key to the criteria will be originality not so much on skill. I mean we all know Shade can draw, and he's probably the best of us, but was his costume change the most original? The winner then gets to choose the subject of the next contest and he/she will be the one vote for that contest. Just a thought. Let me know what y'all think. Any better ideas?
