

Forum: Challenges & Duels

Topic: No votes...

Subject: MY OPINION MATTERS TOO

Posted by: CEREAL_KILLER

Posted on: 2004/2/3 1:46:37

I will say this Furiousmax if there is something on this site that you want to comment on you should bad or good of course if it????????s bad you can be creative in how you word your critique (as not to be lampooned be other posters who might be friends of the victim that receives your criticism.

I personally very rarely visit the adult gallery (every once in a great while there is something worth looking at in that gallery) but for the most part I stay away because I share your sentiments.

I believe that this site like many others where artist can post there work for the public view suffers from too much praise and not enough critique. I plan to attach a message to my future works the basically say that I don????????t want praise (I can get that from my mother) I want honest opinions (that the only way one get better at a craft). That????????s not to say if you want to say kind things I won????????t read it but I much rather hear what you don????????t like about my work.

Just yesterday I left a post for an artist the put up a Batman picture and I stated that he made artistic choices that I don????????t understand but overall his work wasn????????t bad. Maybe this artist will take what I said into consideration on his next work or ignore my comments and say ????????I have no idea what I????????m talking about???????; either way I shared my opinion and isn????????t that what these message boards are about opinion sharing.