Yes,JrMcJethro.If you spent as much time using your imagination on a website made for just that purpose as you do being hostile to people like,me,you may evan be scolded online like this less often.Posts like these are for exporession of creative ideas,Jr.not bickering and insulting one another.Why not try responding to my questions the way I intend people to?You may evan find that your enjoying yourself.

Also,these is no rule forbidding one from responding to their own thread.

One more thing,evan if just one reader responded so far,that is not to say others wont do in the future.I once responded to a thread two years after the last post.let's have more positive responses Jr,so these posts will still be here for a planetful of people to enjoy reading and responding to without fear.
