Just watched Kong. I thought with the big ape and special effects, this one needed to be watched on the big screen. Everything BB said was true. Except I got sick and tired of the girl/ape relationship at the end when they milked it for 45 minutes. In that time the chick had maybe 4 or 5 lines, the rest was spent looking teary eyed at Kong. It gave me a sick feeling after awhile. Aside from that, the movie did excel at the special effects. Kong looked realistic, the characters were believable. I just sorta was wishing at the end that the chick would die.
