Ok so the jan/feb challenge was kind of bust since we were offline. If I remember correctly it was something about pink characters Matrix "The Flamer" blur had devised.

The March challenge will be an easy one.

Take any comic book cover from any publisher and recreate it as a 3d and/or photomanip image. It does not have to be exact and you do not need to include the title and other logos on your image. The picture of spectre I did some time ago would be a good example of the cover image recreation. It can be a scene/ pinup or what ever you want. but you do need to name the issue number and title of the cover you recreated to be included.

winner gets a @heromorph.com e-mail address. the winner will be decided via poll at the beginning of next month.
