I guess if anything... Perhaps when an artist's work does get posted, (and like you said, there's so many that you can't keep track of yourself), then that artist, if they want the so called 'props' should just put it in the forum.

Maybe get this thread itself to be the starting point for the artist to give a shout out and say "I did this". Just a thought.

I myself would love my work to be chosen to be cover art. I see though the part where Angelophile was asking about perhaps linking the original. I don't think it was a complaint.
