Hawk's idea is better.

I would be willing to take commissions and donate half to HM.

In the past when I have taken paid commissions I never posted them (although the buyer usually distributed it anyway).

But those sort of things can be sorted out between the buyer and seller, for a few dollars more you get it to yourself... or the artist can only share a smaller version or something.

So bring on the buyers!

Hah, JR can't handle the difficulties of manipulating spaghetti! I can, it's macaroni cheese that gives me a problem.
