

Forum: HM General Chit Chat

Topic: Origins

Subject: Re: Origins

Posted by: BikerBot

Posted on: 2006/3/25 9:18:27

Let's see now...

In 2003 I was looking for Comic news one day, and found the Comics Continuum. Somehow or other CC led me to Comics2Film, and its DCG. Reading stuff on the DCG led me to the word Manip, and one quick Google later I ended up here, I guess it was Fall of 2003.

I was a big poster of other people's work until Ma-uh, Chilly got on my case one day. That led to all sorts of stuff, and eventually rules like "no posting of other's work". So...

After that, I was shamed by Winterhawk into doing my first Manip, and the rest is history.

On a side note, Jr.'s memory is, as usual, faulty. I did go and find him, but I invited him to come and join, and then told him about his stuff being posted. Just wanted to clarify that.

As for Force95B striking my nerve, it would be interesting to revisit that argument now...

And Hawk, you should not curse me. Without Jr., who would you have to replace Avatars on every week or two?