You know what, I heard about this contest over a year ago. The original entry qualifications were to have a bio, full drawing of your character, and your photo.

I never did hear anything from it, but then I started hearing about this again. I don't think I'm gonna re-enter though.

Any of you interested in doing this?

Besides, I don't think I could take off of work for the duration of time that they need for this show.
