I would have to agree. I've been staring at the Best Artist category for 5 minutes now. I can't decide. Everyone's art is different, and I like things about each artist's style. I can't pick someone out to be 'better' than all the rest. Other categories are a bit easier to decide, but in the end it's all based on personal preference.

I guess we'll have to wait and see what lies in the aftermath.

Also keep in mind, this year's nominees included only a handful of artists and only about 4 month's worth of submissions. If we do this next year, the process will be much more involved.
