The semi-annual Cleaning of the Galleries has been completed and some galleries have been hit harder then other. But the good news is that we now have lots of room for shiny new art to be posted here.

As most of you have noticed the gallery have a lot of new and changed sections in them.

Most of you probably remember the poll we had asking you the members of Heromorph what you would like to see the most. An overwhelming number of you wanted additional art section besides comic books. Soooo we added a bunch, they are sci-fi (Roswell porn in adult), TV and movie, and fantasy. Heromorph is breaking out of being just a comic book fan art site and we want to include everything under the sun. We are hoping that with the addition of these new gallery sections you will now have a place to post almost anything you can think of.

Also you will notice the Other Art (paintings, sculpture, etc..) section. Pretty much this is for any type of art that doesn't fit into the 3d, manip, drawn variety. Did you make your own costume and get photographed in it. Did you do a superhero made out of tiles, are you a painter, did you make a 13ft sculpture, paint you motorcycle up like a hero. Pretty much any style of art that doesn't have it's own gallery section can go in there.

For those of you that had images removed during the cleaning, remember please do not repost them, as they have already had their chance and it is time to let other images have some time on the site.

Have a Nice Day
