Okay, how about things that people with no knowledge of comics say that urk you off or, at the very least, make you laugh? I remember when X-2 came out and I read a review for it in People magazine. In it the woman who wrote referneces the kid that changed the TV channels by blinking saying "I don't know what his name is but I'll call him 'Remoto'." REMOTO?! When I first read that I wanted to hunt this self styled movie expert down and slap her upside the head but now, looking back, I just laugh at it.
