

Forum: HM General Chit Chat

Topic: Normies

Subject: Re: Normies

Posted by: Winterhawk

Posted on: 2006/5/31 20:30:07

I do not act like a Fan Boy or get upset when people do not share my knowledge of comics & Sci-Fi, computers, Photoshop etc as I am surprise most people can figure out how to tie their shoes and walk out their doors. These things are a hobby for me, that I enjoy and I know others do not share my interest. I know very little about remote control boats but I have a buddy that loves the things and they are constantly talking about them, I am have no idea what he is talking about.

In fact I think the people that get upset because someone can't tell the difference between a Gamorrean guard and an Uruk-hai extremely hilarious that they think the majority of people would even give a flying fart. I mean come on at a party do you really think your going to be able to screw the hot blonde on your friends pool table with a Jedi mind trick. Or with your mastery of Marvel trivia You guys crack me up. Did high school or college teach you nothing?

Buncha Geeks