What I'd like to know is if mainstream America will accept a out of the closet homosexual superheroine. I admire DC for having the cojones to try this in the conservitave climate our country is in these days but just like Donna Troy taking over as Wonder Woman after Diana inadvertantly kills someone or Lois Lane with a child in the upcoming 'Superman Returns' movie, it's all about challenging the audience. Unfortunately, this is the same audience who only eats at McDonald's, only shops at Wal-Mart and watches the same television shows every week so maybe they don't want to be challenged. What do y'all think?
