Why is it that sites like this one attract so many assholes? Over the time I have been here I have noticed at least one dumb bugger a month. Most are the same, they come in and start to argue with one of the many moderators of the site and then the jag-off gets the boot. It is a repeating cycle, over and over.

What is funny to me is that this happens sooo often that you would figure at least one of these idiots would have seen it at least once or twice themselves before they decided to share their infinite wisdom on a subject that they of course are the only ones that see it their way thru their Divine enlightenment and are so graciously entrusting us, the great ignorant masses with the true wisdom of the universe. Did they really think they were the ones that were going to make a lasting impression?

Some of these guys deserve the boot, others maybe not, I don't have all the information to make that call. But it seems if you keep a positive attitude and mind your business this is a friendly and fun site.

From level one to the most recent boonbog, AnonomissX, Tigra, Force, Onewhowishes and more. Learn from their examples being a jackstick never helps. What will happen is you will be an idiot, you will be mocked and then will be banned and people will continue to mock you. Don't be a moron it is a fight you will never win, but sometimes it is funny to watch.
