Well folks, I reside in Bay Saint Louis, Mississippi (probably the only Mississippian posting), which is just outside of New Orleans (where we don't mind cheering for the Saints this year!!!)and our biggest claim to fame recently is that Bay Saint Louis was ground zero for Hurricane Katrina last year. The eye plowed right through here people! As I write this we still do not have floors or furniture...but we do have our computer and DSL connection! We are coming back strong around here and will be better than ever!
