I don't think Syler has mind control...just very accurate telekinesis. His victims are all impaled by objects in their houses. Maybe his X-gene(or whatever they call it in this show) was activated by the professor and it got out of control. He seems to have cellular regeneration, tk, either flight or teleportation and the ability to track other "heroes" or at least identify them. He takes their brains so maybe he gains power from them somehow.

The cheerleader seems to be pretty fragile. Her neck broke very easily when the quarterback "accidentally" ran into her. She breaks easily and then heals quickly. She also doesn't seem to feel much pain.

I love this show!!! I can't wait for the next episode!!!
