AeroCycle and I have never spoken, I am as surprised as you are. But how cool is that?! AC, how did you find my Thread?!

My website hosting reports show the names of the referring URL. I can see the traffic to my site from people who follow the link you've posted.

I guess I'm just a little guy who is actually interested in what people are saying on the groups. Usually I'll just read and see if I've gotten any new fans or to track any growth in the interest for the product. I'll only chime in if I see anything that I'd like to clarify or if people are calling it a scam.

I've taken no offense to anything that you've said here; I've been treated much worse (to my face) on other newsgroups. Thanks for the comments and well-wishes; and yes, a parachute would not be a bad idea.

You'd also spoken about safety. BTW, small aircraft are generally pretty safe ? at least compared to the motorcycle once on the ground.
