Hawk got me thinking about how comics idealize their characters. Hawk was bemoaning his own hideous appearance when it occurred to me, as it has in the past, how comics limit themselves and do us a disservice. So here is a rather heroic looking fellow that would never get a callback from comic casting...

I swear, I saw this guy on the wall at the Post Office the other day...

Nice job. You should finish it.

Been accused of many things, round, bald, big smelly feet, bad breath, gas problem(not for me anyway)but SHORT??? I guess that is a new one.

It's my take on what Princess Leia says to Luke when they first meet on the Death Star, Chiefie. Said the big geek.
