

Forum: Challenges & Duels

Topic: Superhero Smackdown 2 Round 1

Subject: Re: Superhero Smackdown 2 Round 1

Posted by: chillyplasma

Posted on: 2007/7/2 17:32:18

Hi

Not sure if I will take part yet, but I have some advice for newcomers.

Don't choose a popular or well-known character, as this makes it easier for other competitors to use your character in their images - then they have more control over your character.

The more images you do the more control you have over your character and what happens to them.

It's obvious Poser users have an advantage in speed. Manip and other artists might want to start now and half-finish some images that could be used for different purposes later.

You could get your 1 image finished each month (or however often) but you might find close to the deadline your character has been killed (or something) and you need a new image to bring them back to life!

But newcomers get on board! It's all good fun and you don't need to be a good artist, just use humour and clever story-telling.