DERn, this is a nice one!

And I DO understand what you and Bio are saying about not limiting myself. But see, I've only "smudged-up" pics --very messy-- using the smudge tool. I don't know how to use it delicately, as you obviously can. My trials with the smudge tool leave the image looking like a wet painting after somebody rubs their finger across it. I know, I know! that's why I have to practice/experiment with it, right? I'll give it a few more tries, but in the meantime, I'd still like to take the easy route of finding a site that provides the high res model images for me... @ least until I get better with the smudge tool. btw: Is the Path Tool the same as the Pen Tool? Cuz I've been using the Pen tool to cut out my models from their original pics.
