...But see, I've only "smudged-up" pics --very messy-- using the smudge tool. I dont know how to use it delicately, as you obviously can. My trials with the smudge tool leave the image looking like a wet painting after somebody rubs their finger across it. I know, I know! that's why I have to practice/experiment with it, right? i'll give it a few more tries, but in the meantime, i'd still like to take the easy route of finding a site that provides the high res model images for me... @ least until I get better with the smudge tool. btw: Is the Path Tool the same as the Pen Tool? Cuz I've been using the Pen tool to cut out my models from their original pics.

Er... turn down the strength
you have it up too high...
