

Forum: Commissions and Requests

Topic: Comic art styled band promo

Subject: Re: Comic art styled band promo

Posted by: Biohaz_Daddy

Posted on: 2007/9/17 8:49:22

Quote:

DarthMiller wrote:

Sorry to any of you who consider this original message spam, but if you look at my profile I've been a member of Heromorph for a while now, and have never used this site to advertise our band. Further more, we are actually looking for for an artist for our comic book, and have three "issues" already written. Besides this is the section to post about commissions, is it not?

The Spam-Lite label is a fun way of letting our members know that there "may" be no real meat in the can. I think if your initial post was implicit that a financial arrangement was being offered the label wouldn't have been slapped on. If that offends you, so be it, but as we have seen so many artists get burned, we err on the side of caution. Cuz there ain't nothing worse than spending the amount of time it takes to produce a piece and then being stiffed.

We of course give you the benefit of the doubt. That's why we just put the label on there rather than deleting the thread. Nothing would please us more than if you and an artist member here were to come to a happy arrangement with this project.