To moderators: I love the site! I joined last night and posted 3 images before I read the posting guidelines.(WHOOOPS!) After reading the guidelines I didn't see a specific digital art (non-photomanip) section so I re-posted the 3 images to the Heromorph gallery under the various appropriate sections.

Is there a time-frame when the art becomes viewable on the site?

Since you are new you go into a queue. Once the moderator of that particular gallery deems your stuff ready to go... it goes. So, it can be as quick as a few minutes... if someone is here to do it, or a few days. However, once you have proved that you aren't going to be an "over-poster" and post in the correct gallery, you will then be given clearance to instantly upload an image. So basically, read the posting policy and don't be an idiot and you get instant uploads.

Hope this clears things up for you.
