I'm more inclined to agree with Hawk. I remember when CNN and every news channel on the planet had to make a big deal out of The death of Superman. And I also remember my gramps saying "This would be what? His 6th death now?" And then I remember the radio goin on and on about "The first 500 callers get a free copy of Spin Doctors new cd along with a free copy of The Death of Superman!!" Don't you think there's something wrong when everybody and their mother is giving away free copies?

The last time I checked the damn comic wasn't even worth the cover price. But hey, I go and check it out anyways. And all I saw was Supes got clocked in the mouth and the next thing I know his old man is like his spiritual guide through heaven and crap.
